A picture that is not the correct aspect ratio may change during resizing. While changing the intensity of a layer draw, it can easily destroy the image quality. Adjust Image Quality

Photoshop's resolution for the camera display is independent of your desktop resolution. Therefore, we will always get a decent-quality picture. If you have large files, there is a way to get a better quality than the default Photoshop desktop resolution of 300 dpi. If the image is more than 8,000 pixels in width, the camera display will retain the higher resolution. You can then resize the picture to the width as you want. This will ensure that you always obtain a high-quality result from the picture. Adjust Mask Options

When editing multiple layers at the same time, using the mask workflow is a good way to save time and eliminate work errors. Since you can see a quick preview of the current layer mask, you can make changes instantly with minimal time wasted. You can modify the mask with real-time tracking using the Pen tool. Every move you make appears in real time on the mask layer. This makes it a lot faster and you can use the Free Transform tool to directly edit the mask. Adobe's new Photoshop Sync & Share uses the cloud and artificial intelligence (AI) to automatically sync and share contextually-aware image, style, and layer content across all your devices. With Adobe Photoshop, you can edit an image on your desktop computer, and then share changes directly to mobile devices and the web with automatic syncing to the cloud. As you work, Photoshop detects the best place to go next, so you can always continue your work across devices. Adobe's new Photoshop Sync & Share is available today on Photoshop CC. Photoshop comes with a built-in web browser, which makes the best use of a computer's hardware to give you a surprisingly quick web-experience. But if you often need to rapidly look up something online, the new browser won't help you much, as it's not that speedy. For instance, with the Adobe Browser Speed Enhancement feature, the browser will now load web pages faster than ever before. Adobe Browser Speed Enhancement works by taking the unused space on your hard drive and converting it into usable memory. This means that the browser will load web pages faster because more of it can be stored in memory instead of being swapped out to hard drive. And, if you opt for the full-version of the browser, you can even save over 50% of your hard drive's space, even while surfing the web.
